LOUISVILLE, KY (WAVE) – An original member of the Louisville Metro Council has died after being stricken while working in his office at City Hall on June 10. 66-year-old Councilman George Unseld was pronounced dead at a University Hospital after collapsing in his third-floor office around 5:35 p.m.

Stunned council members leaned on each other after the unthinkable happened at City Hall. Tony Hyatt, spokesperson for the Democratic Caucus, and Councilwoman Madonna Flood (D-District 24) were the first to rush to Unseld's side.
